

SKYHOOK

ON A NEW LIFT

A Paul Bunyan-sized balloon is "flying" as much as 10 tons of lumber at a time to saw mills in Oregon. The 175,000-cubic foot, helium-filled behemoth speeds the timber along over a mile of rugged terrain at speeds up to 25 miles per hour.

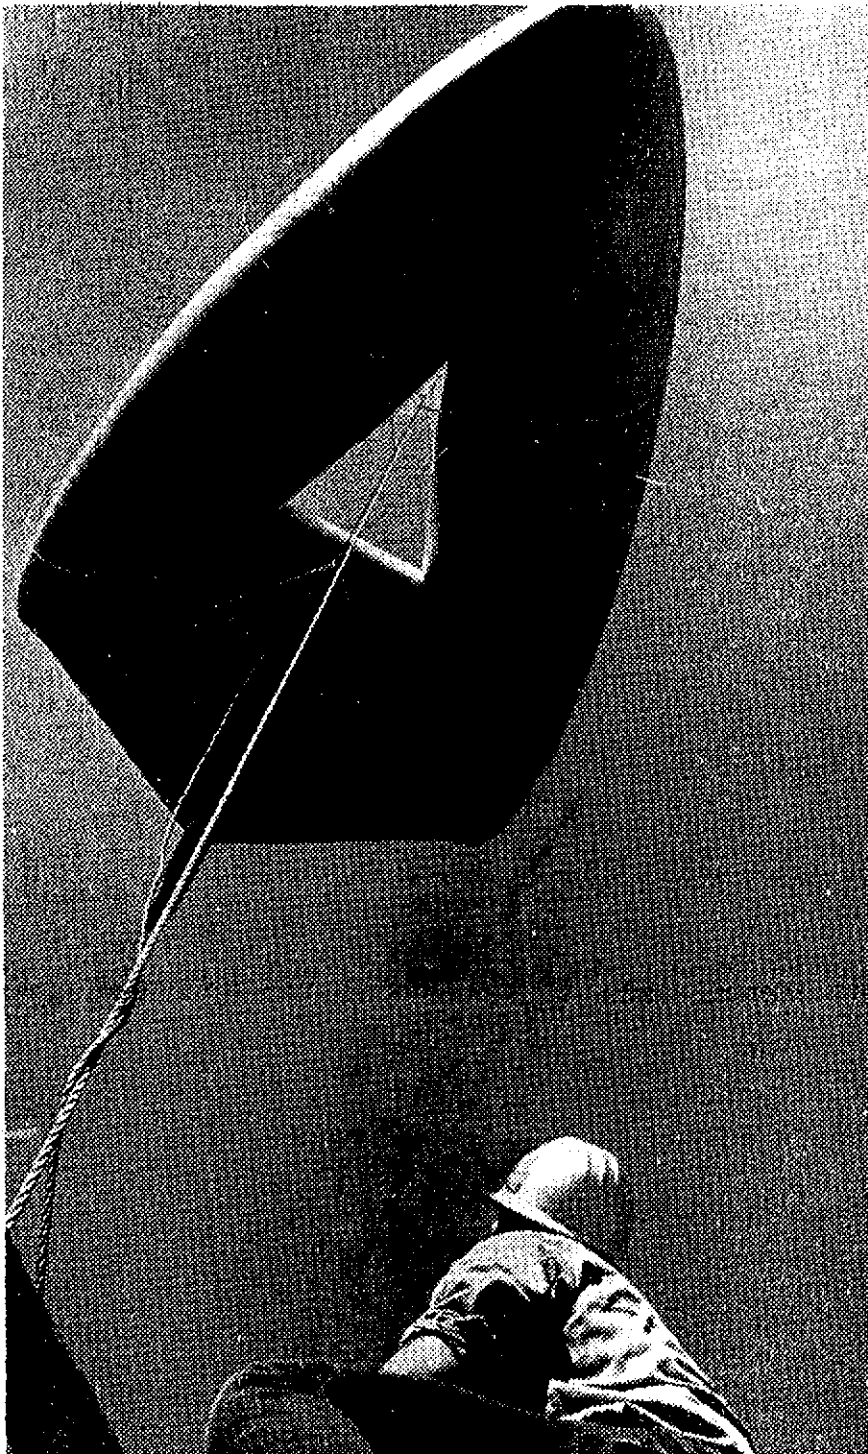

The new twin-hulled V-shaped balloon can move multi-log loads out of otherwise inaccessible territory, making possible the logging of millions of acres of timber in North America that otherwise could not be logged because of steep slopes, unstable soils, difficult road building conditions or the need to protect esthetic and recreational values.

Balloon logging itself has been used successfully for more than two years. The giant new balloon — 162½ feet long and 88½ feet wide at its tail — is expected to cut as much as 50 per cent from the cost of conventional logging methods.

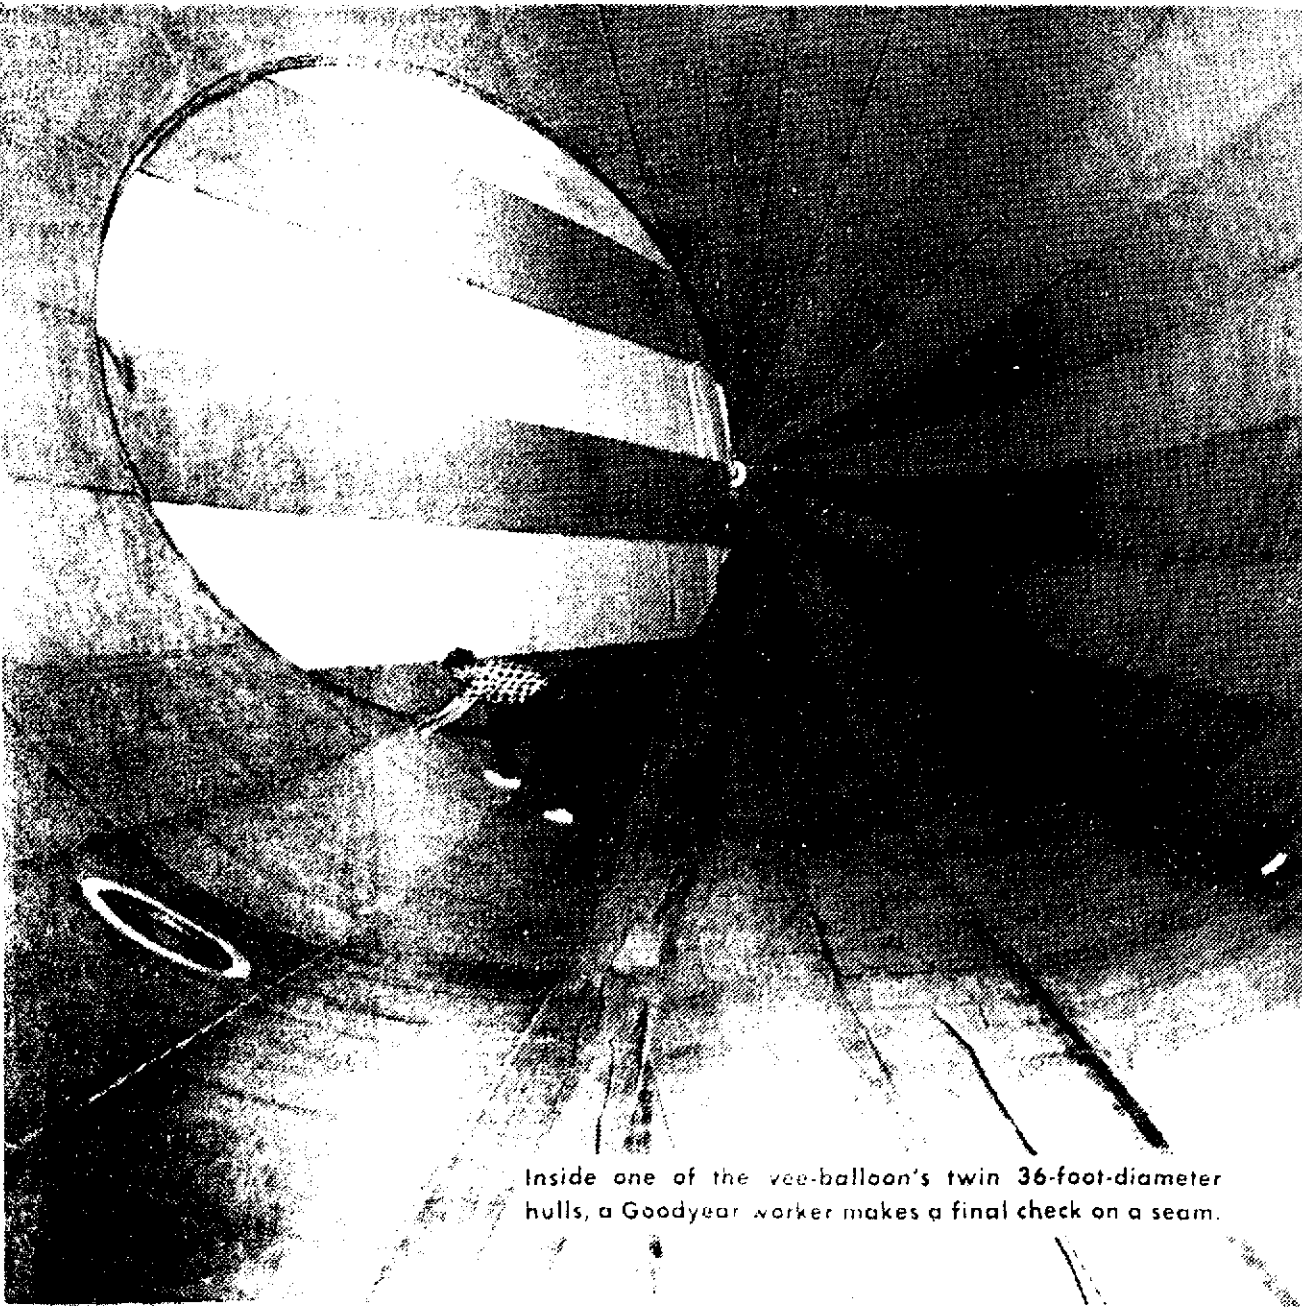

The super "skyhook" was developed by the Goodyear Aerospace Corporation for the Bohemia Lumber Company, which is using the new vee-balloon to put a new lift into logging operations.

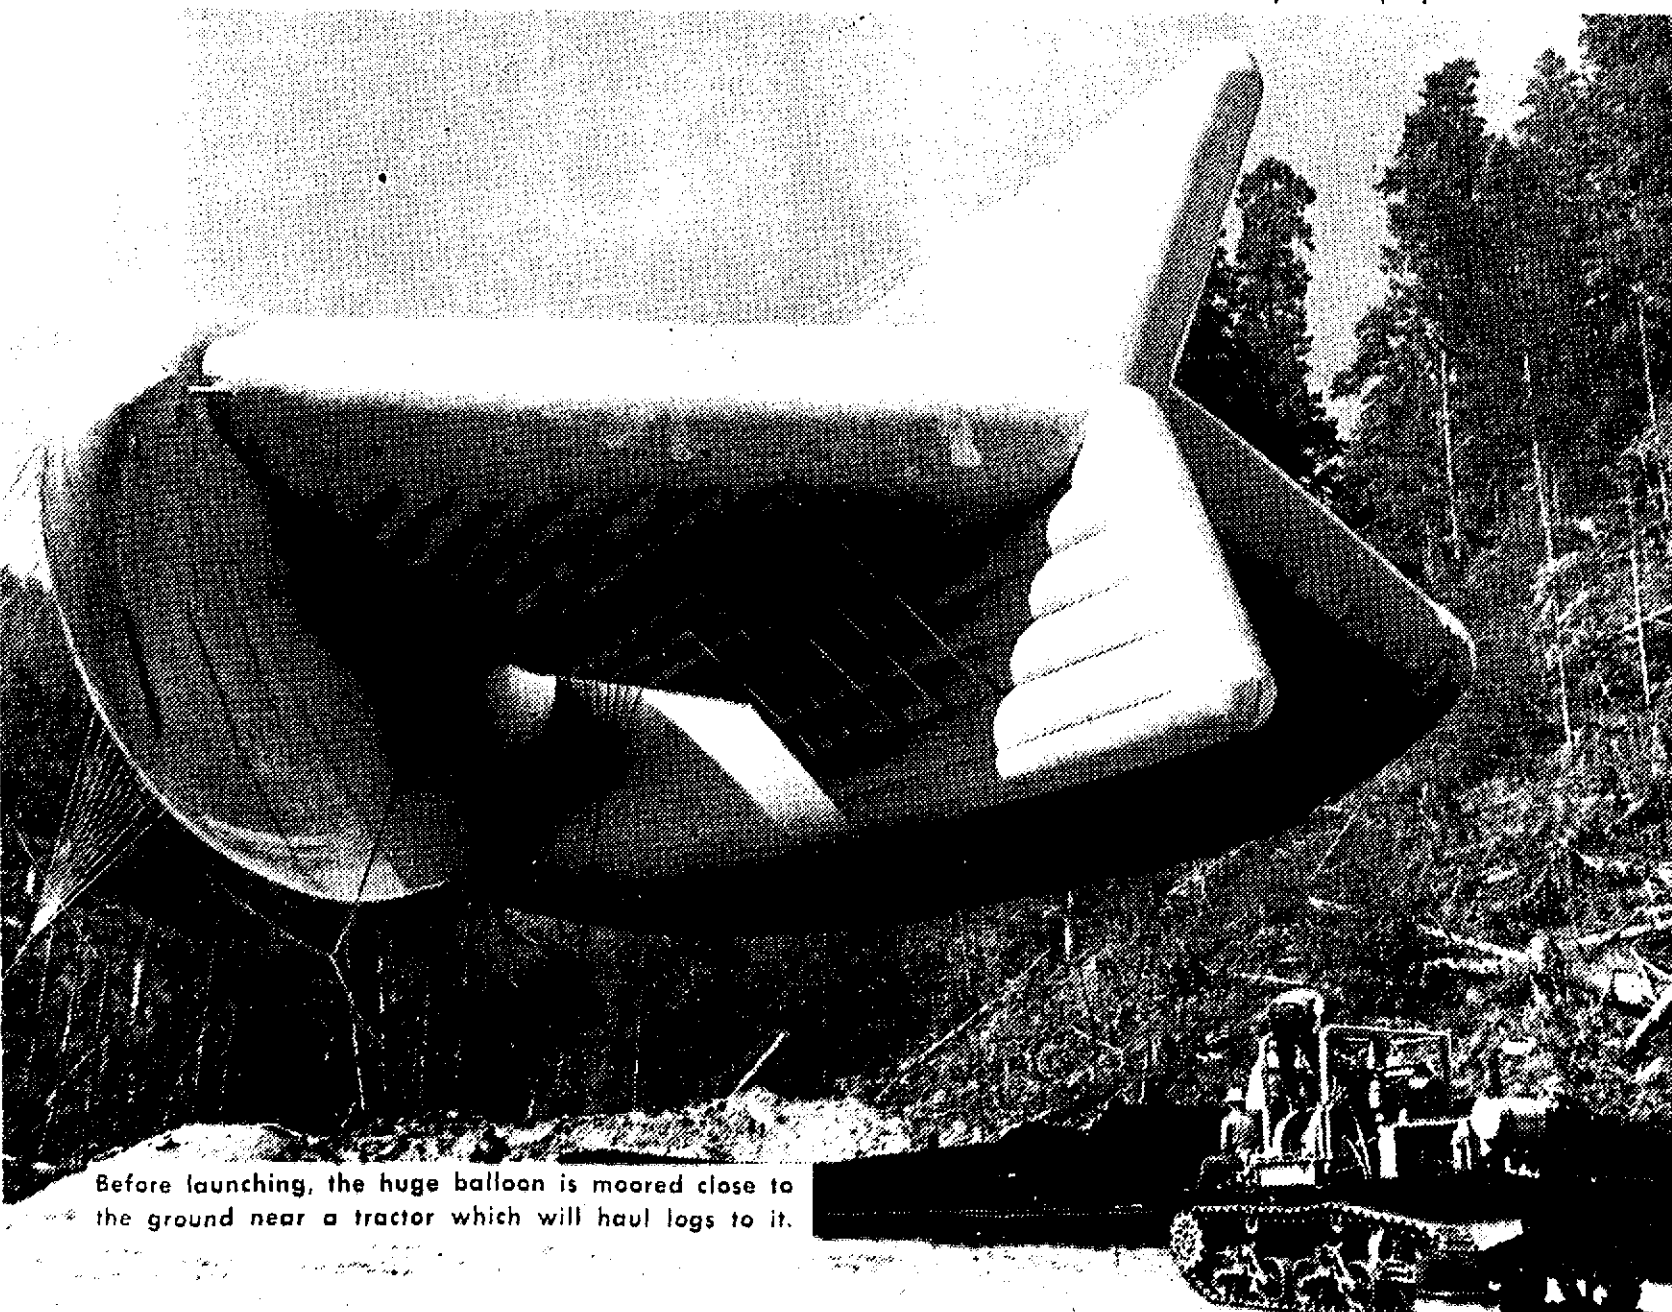

His head and hands inside the outer layer of the double-skinned hull of the vee-balloon, a worker checks a leak.

Launching the skyhook, a winch operator lets out line to allow the balloon to float up to its proper altitude.

Inside one of the vee-balloon's twin 36-foot-diameter hulls, a Goodyear worker makes a final check on a seam.

Before launching, the huge balloon is moored close to the ground near a tractor which will haul logs to it.

METHODIST KINDERGARTEN CELEBRATES THANKSGIVING WITH PROGRAM AND PARTY

The children of Methodist Kindergarten began their celebration of Thanksgiving Wednesday with a worship service in the church sanctuary. After examining the stained glass windows, the children repeated verses from the Psalms, said a prayer, and sang Thanksgiving hymns, accompanied at the piano by Miss Elise Broach. Later the group prepared the food for their Thanksgiving "feast" which was served by a committee of small hostesses from a table made festive with colorful placecards made by the children. The event of the first American Thanksgiving were made more realistic to the children when they constructed a miniature Indian village and made Indian head dresses to wear during the party.

Coming, Going

Mrs. Leon Bundy, Mrs. Leatrice Bailey and W. D. Bailey, Jr. spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. William Bundy and son in Hot Springs.

TIMELY QUOTES

Governments are quite familiar with the process of sending inaccurate messages to each other.
—Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

It seems certain that the public will be much more inclined to go along with high salaries for truly outstanding people. The real difficulty arises when high salaries are paid to relatively undistinguished people, or worse, to people regarded as mediocrities.

—The Institute of Public Administration, in a report to Mayor Lindsay of New York.

There will be no merger of the reserve and the National Guard at any time, under any circumstances, in the foreseeable future if I can prevent it—and I've been doing a pretty good job so far.
—Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., to Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jack Leonard Warner is unique in an era when other major studios are operated by committees. A thorough autocrat, he wields virtually unlimited power over the destiny of Warner Bros.

"Jack is a very definite man," says Jack Lemmon. "You can get an answer from him on a policy matter in five minutes. He may change his mind later, but it will be his made no concessions to their fans; indeed, at times appeared to be almost contemptuous of their followers. They often and it turned out he was right."

Rex Harrison also has praise for Warner: "I found him very approachable when matters of artistic policy arose. He listened and then gave his decision from his years of experience; obviously he knows his business."

"I traveled across the country for premieres of 'My Fair Lady' with Warner and I found him to be a very engaging fellow. He was bouncy and cheerful early in the morning and kept going until late at night, always full of jokes."

Praise from actors comes as a rarity for Jack Warner, who has known a stormy history with the breed.

Warner commented in his autobiography, "My first hundred years in Hollywood": "Many times over the years I have been depressed by what I thought was ingratitude on the part of certain actors and actresses who, turned into stars by our time and money and imagination, were knifing me in public."

In the book, Warner struck back at what he considered were the perils of stars from John Barrymore ("He could stow away a fifth or more a day") to "Bette Davis ('An explosive little broad with a sharp left')."

Warner told of how he had to reprimand Humphrey Bogart when the actor "had enough alcohol in him to dissolve all the paint on the set" and was careening about the studio on a bi-account that all four Beatles are above-average musicians, the song-writing team of Lennon and McCartney being particularly gifted.

Still others, who are experts on the technical aspects of pop music, claim that the Beatles owe much of their success to their refusal to merge their identities behind a "lead" singer. Thus a girl could express a strong preference for a particular Beatle without in any way feeling disloyal to the group. She could even be fickle, switch from Paul to Ringo, without wavering in her Beatle fidelity.

Whatever the secret of the Beatles' success, there are a lot of 14- and 15-year-old girls going around Britain today with tragic expressions on their faces. They resemble child widows looking for a funeral pyre on which to cast their bodies.

The 16-year-olds, however, have begun to take an interest in the Beach Boys, the American pop group that is now on tour here. With pop music idols, as with British royalty, so often the rule is. The king is dead, long live the king.

cycle while dressed in pajamas. Warner saved his greatest scorn for Tab Hunter, who got down on his knees in a studio street to plead for release from his contract.

The studio boss granted the release after berating Hunter for failing to observe his contract. He added: "I wonder what ever happened to Tab Hunter?"

HELEN HENNESSY'S BOUTIQUE

NEW YORK—(NEA)—British actress Susannah York loves lots of clothes.

"I go on buying binges," she said, "and I try on and buy until I'm utterly exhausted. It's like gluttony."

Across the lunch table, her handsome husband, actor Michael Wells, laughed. "It's not that bad," he explained. "But she does buy six or eight dresses at a time, I guess."

Susannah and Mike were here on a visit following the filming of Susannah's role as Margaret More, Sir Thomas More's scholarly daughter, in the Columbia picture version of "A Man for All Seasons." And a delightful twosome they are.

Blond Susannah, wearing a short, red Tuffin & Foale dress (the girls are her favorite designers), talked about fashion and how she believed women should choose their clothes. She has the happiest fashion philosophy I've heard in many a moon.

"A woman should dress so that she can forget her clothes. She can't forget them if she chooses the kind of thing people will stare at."

"I dress so that I can forget myself and then I can attend to other people." A gracious, old-fashioned word, attend.

Susannah also feels women should dress according to their moods—feminine, elegant, frivolous or tailored.

"Sometimes you're in a pastel, pearl mood. At other times you feel like wearing trousers. If you dress the way you feel you still have the chance to forget yourself because you're not fighting your mood."

The mention of trousers reminded Mike that Susannah had been turned away from New York's swank Colony restaurant when she arrived in a pants suit.

"I don't understand it," he admitted. "In the '30s they wouldn't have turned Garbo or Dietrich away and they wore pants."

Susannah feels that the wild Carnaby fashions are simply a result of individuality asserting itself in Britain.

With a stack of new clothes, she and Mike set off for home—a 73-acre working farm just an hour away from London by train.

So, if your best hat is missing, it's too late. She's gone.

Fashion in the News

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Printed vinyl continues to dazzle the fashion world.

It's part of the print explosion which is sweeping the country. And it promises to be especially big for the winter cruise and resort season. There is a rash of dramatic cut-out dresses that accentuate the daring bare look in the new shiny prints.

You just can't miss vinyl. If it's around, you see it. And this season wild prints, dots, off-beat florals, printed stripes, geometrics and art nouveau will glow in the sun with a happy feeling.

Comfort in vinyl fashions is achieved with the loosely cut look perfect for sports and by fully lining the garments.

Vinyl is easy to care for. It's water-repellent, needs no ironing and can be wiped off clean with a damp cloth.

Guaranteed to make the dullest day look bright, printed vinyl raincoats and capes zoom through traffic and make heads turn.

For young people a printed vinyl suit with a miniskirt is a good choice from the standpoint of looks and freedom in walking.

The American Printed Fabrics Council gives its stamp of approval to printed vinyl and so do many of the young designers.

It's one more phase of the fun-in-fashion craze.

Schools need not only federal aid, but divine aid.
—The Rev. Robert B. McNeill, Charleston, W. Va., minister, on school prayers.

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

BREAKFAST, THE ALL-BROKE-UP MEAL: Breakfast is the most disorganized family meal—few families sit down together or eat a regular, hearty menu. It's a helpy-selpy, grab-and-run deal, nationwide studies show. You take the brunt of this, because you need 10 to 20 per cent more calories than your parents—and a fourth to a third of this should get stuffed down in you at the first meal of the day. Tests bear out that breakfast eaters get more daily work done than breakfast skippers. The U.S. Department of Agriculture recommends your beating this breakfast jinx by consuming juices—fruit or tomato—for your vitamin C... bread and cereals to stoke you with carbohydrate energy, minerals, etc. ... milk—at breakfast, and at least a quart a day... plus something hot—and it won't hurt if this is in the eggs or meat department. Maybe you're the kind that hates to get out from under the covers in the morning. O.K., prepare as much as you can the night before—saves time in shoe-horning a lively breakfast down. Here are some mouth-opening, startling new dishes really being eaten... that add unusual zip and zest to breakfast: cottage cheese (with any kind of fruit on top); hot soup (why not, you need something hot!); ice cream (it's dairy food and wakes you up like a cold shower); or drink your breakfast (whirl yogurt in a blender, plus wheat germ, syrup, frozen fruit)—then, in two minutes, slug this entire meal down.

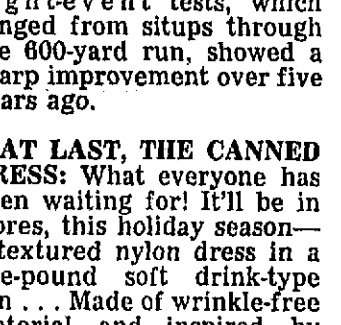

IN EGYPT MUSIC HATES LOVE: In Nasser's United Arab Republic, marriage is overwhelmingly the blissful state of teen and near-teen girls (around 20 is their average age for marriage). And the booming population is seriously outstripping the resources of this desert country. Worse—Nasser's year-old family-planning program is faltering badly, with only 20,000 women (among Egypt's 15 million co-operating). So, a drastic step is being taken to propagandize anti-propagation... the government is supplying radio stations with antilove songs, stressing not love, but the problems of having too many children.

NEW HIGH IN HIGHER EDUCATION: Along with courses in rarified philosophy and advanced calculus, Columbia University students now take a novel and pop course—bartending. Run by a professor who is a hotel bar manager teetotaler, pupils are instructed in everything—from how to twist a lemon properly to slivovitz. This fall, students have signed up in such large numbers that double classes are being held. When these Ivy League bar boys pass this course, the student employment agency lines up party assignments—such as at actress Jane Fonda's birthday shindig. Sorry—strictly no mixing with the guests or the contents of the bar and no academic credit for the course.

TEEN GIRLS ARE FIGHTIN' FIT: The President's Physical Fitness Awards came up with a surprise this year in the nationwide tests among junior and senior high school students up to the age of 17. Overturning the program's earlier prediction that boys would lead in scoring and the State of California beat all others in winners—Guess what? Of the 9,000 guys and girls who muscled through to the top, a total of 5,450 were girls. Among the 50 states, Floridians won the most... next came contestants from Illinois, New Jersey, Missouri and Virginia. But, all in all... all of you looked pretty good. The average for participants in the strenuous eight-event tests, which ranged from situps through the 600-yard run, showed a sharp improvement over five years ago.

AT LAST, THE CANNED DRESS: What everyone has been waiting for! It'll be in stores, this holiday season—a textured nylon dress in a one-pound soft drink-type can... Made of wrinkle-free material and inspired by Paris designs, it's styled for ages 15 to 20. Naturally, it's called "Le Canned Dress."

BARBS

Who enjoys leading a boring life, except an apple worm?

The most difficult boss to work for is the one who's never sure just what he wants.

Doctors urge us to eat less, but restaurant prices are taking care of that.

A bachelor is a guy who has everybody to tell his troubles to.

How to work toward successful living can only be learned through on-the-job training.

Bargains are what women can't afford to pass up and their husbands can't afford.

To make a lot of dollars you need a lot of business sense.

...the last on the Golden Rule. "Do Ye Even So Unto Them." We often paraphrase the Rule but it is extremely doubtful whether one could say it better than King James. There is the milk in the coconut. And the above portion of the Rule is the climatic phrase. We have declared what others should do, which is to say what is my duty... what I must do. We are bound up together. Then "together" is the significant word. There are rules in every game and the Golden Rule is simply saying play, but be fair about it. "Even So," makes it pretty limited. The patrolman allows no special privileges. I keep the common laws of the highway or I am denied the privilege of driving. Long, long ago a thoughtful man declared that God shows no partiality... He has no favorites. Any man who reverences Him and lives a good life is welcomed by Him. Therefore, the proposition is made. The challenge is before you to

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

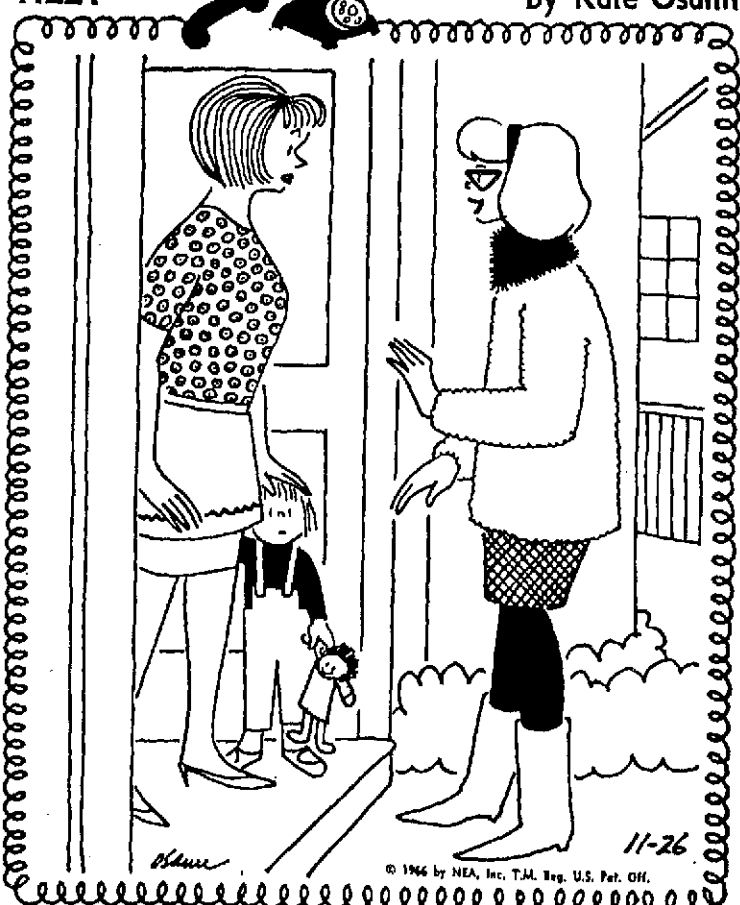

Modern glider planes are capable of a amazing aerona- tical performances, says The World Almanac. Powered solely by air cur- rents, they have been known to fly more than 600 miles in one flight and reach heights above 40,000 feet. During World War II, the Germans made use of the noiseless planes for surprise attacks. Some glid- ers can carry over 100 men.

If you watch the average de- clarer follow suit he almost al- ways plays his lowest card. Experts have a tendency to mix them up. Sometimes they have a reason, other times they are merely keeping in practice so as not to form a pattern.

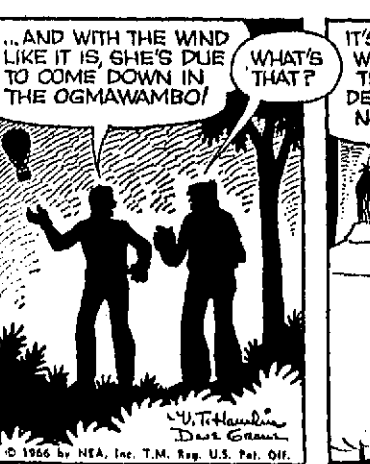

All of this is part of de- clarer's strategy. He does not want to let his opponents know that he has played his lowest card. There is a lot more strategy possible in the play of high cards.

Here is another old timer from Fred Karpin's book on strategy.

South is declarer at three no-trump. His normal play is to win East's jack of spades with the queen. Then he goes over to dummy with a heart and tries the diamond finesse. If it works he makes a lot of tricks but this time it loses and West is likely to abandon spades and go after clubs. If he does this the defense will pick up four quick club tricks and South will be one down. The expert in deception will win the first trick with the ace instead of the queen. Then he will lose the same diamond finesse but it is dollars to doughnuts that West will continue spades. South will make his queen of spades after all and go about his business of winning the rubber.

South's false-card would have been a poor play in match point duplicate because it would cost him an over-trick if the diamond finesse won. In rubber bridge he could afford to give up this over-trick. Of course, if West shifted to a club anyway the false-card would really be expensive. East would cash five clubs and then give his partner four spade tricks.

Notre Dame Faces So. Cal Today

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mighty Notre Dame and Rose Bowl-bound Southern California met today in the 38th renewal of a fierce intersectional series that has commanded national interest through the years.

Ever since 1926, when Knute Rockne's Fighting Irish and the Trojans of Howard Jones tangled for the first time, the rivalry has produced exciting—and unpredictable—results.

The Irish won that first meeting 13-12, but Southern Cal has recouped more than once over the ensuing years.

Just two seasons ago, the Trojans stunned Notre Dame 20-17 under circumstances strikingly similar to those surrounding today's encounter.

It was Ara Parseghian's first year at South Bend, and the Irish went west with an unbeaten mark in nine games—as they did today—and the national championship all but tucked away.

The Irish raced to a 17-0 half-time lead before the Trojans retaliated. With the score 17-13 Notre Dame and seconds remaining, Craig Fertig hit Rod Sherman with the winning touchdown strike.

While Notre Dame risked its No. 1 ranking against the 10th ranked Trojans today, traditional season wind-ups—headed by the Army-Navy war at Philadelphia—dotted the schedule.

The Cadets and Middies clashed for the 67th time in the interservice spectacular, witnessed by 100,000 fans at John F. Kennedy Memorial Stadium and a national television audience.

Georgia Tech, unbeaten in nine starts, and once-beaten Georgia, rated fifth and seventh nationally, collided for the 61st time while Virginia and North Carolina continued a rivalry that started in 1892.

Southern Methodist, needing a victory to win the Southwest Conference title and host berth in the Cotton Bowl, took on Texas Christian in an annual season-ending brawl and Clemson, seeking to nail the Atlantic Coast Conference crown, tackled arch-rival TSSSSS NA.

Other fixtures included Miami-Florida, Holy Cross-Boston College, Rice-Baylor, Mississippi-Mississippi State and Tennessee-Tennessee.

Third-ranked Alabama, 8-0, met Southern Mississippi in its next-to-last start and Sun Bowl-bound Florida State entertained Maryland in other top games.

State Players Are Leading Statistically

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two Arkansas State players are statistical leaders today in the Southland Conference, half-back Terry Gwin and fullback Steve Gankiewicz.

Gankiewicz leads the league in scoring with a record 78 points and Gwin in rushing with a record 607 yards on 135 carries.

Only one game remains in the conference with Lamar Tech meeting the Quantico Marines at Quantico, Va., Thursday.

Donnie Witwiski of Trinity leads in total offense with 1,578 yards on 315 plays. Phil Primm of Tech trails him by only 86 yards and probably will move to the front in the final game.

Witwiski also leads in passing with 125 completions in 234 attempts for 1,491 yards and nine touchdowns. Primm is second with 1,236 yards and 13 downs.

Just two seasons ago, the Trojans stunned Notre Dame 20-17 under circumstances strikingly similar to those surrounding today's encounter.

It was Ara Parseghian's first year at South Bend, and the Irish went west with an unbeaten mark in nine games—as they did today—and the national championship all but tucked away.

The Irish raced to a 17-0 half-time lead before the Trojans retaliated. With the score 17-13 Notre Dame and seconds remaining, Craig Fertig hit Rod Sherman with the winning touchdown strike.

Takes Pain Out of Those Slice Drives

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS (AP) — Cheer up, you golf duffers. James H. Van Alen is coming to your rescue.

Van Alen, a confessed duffer, has a plan to take the pain out of sliced drives (he eliminates them), the frustration out of topped second shots (he gives you another chance) and the agony out of misjudged long putts (you can try again). It's strictly up to you if you want to adopt his system.

Van Alen is an incurable sports gadfly. For 10 years he has been trying to "make sense out of nonsense" in the tennis scoring system. He has proposed using a 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 scoring system. As in the table tennis system and playing sets that finish when the leader gets 21 or 31 points.

Now he has turned his rube-juggling inventiveness to golf.

Van Alen's complaint against golf is that "90 per cent of those who play at golf can't break 100 without cheating." This, he contends, leads to excruciating frustrations, unseemly language and bleeding ulcers.

Briefly, Van Alen catalogs griefs against golf as:

1. A round takes too long.
2. There's not enough exercise for the time involved.
3. There's not enough hitting of the ball.
4. There are too many clubs in the bag, and the duffer can't possibly know how to use all of them.

What's his solution? Well, you start off by throwing away all your clubs except a five iron and a putter. That limits the load, dispenses the caddy, and leaves the duffer with two clubs that he can really familiarize himself with.

You don't play 18 holes, just nine. That cuts down on the time angle, and if you just want to walk you can go for a hike at a much brisker and more beneficial pace. But you get just as many shots because you hit alternate balls on each try.

As Van Alen explains it, "You hit two shots off the tee (with the No. 5 iron) and select the ball with the better lie for your second shot. You then hit two second shots and select the better lie for your third. You may improve your lie on all shots from the tee to the green, also on the first putt."

He proclaims that the time wasted hunting for lost balls is drastically reduced, a firm friendship is built up with one club instead of a nodding acquaintance with 13, traveling with complete golf kit is simplified, and the course loses its terror aspects.

"There is no brooding. You forget your fozzled first, and only remember your cagey second," Van Alen says.

Van Alen calls his proposed golf revolution VAAGG — Van Alen's Answer to Grief in Golf.

Alexander Graham Bell not only invented the telephone, he produced a remarkable forerunner of the jet-powered helicopter in 1893.

LeRoy Kelly Regains Rush Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — Leroy Kelly of Cleveland has regained the rushing lead in the National Football League with a total of 830 yards and an average of 5.3 yards per carry.

Dick Bass of Los Angeles is close behind with 808 yards but the Rams have played 11 games to Cleveland's 10. Each will play 14 before the season ends. Gale Sayers of Chicago with 785 in 10 games also is a hot contender.

Chess Match May Take a Year

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — A Stanford University computer, its memory core stuffed with chess-playing know-how, has taken on a Soviet computer in a chess match series which may take a year to complete.

The promoter of the match is a Stanford professor, Dr. John McCarthy, who would like to improve and evaluate "intelligent behavior" by machines.

McCarthy and his students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Stanford have been developing the chess-playing program since 1957. The professor challenged the Soviets to the match last year while on a visit to Moscow.

The human programmers have fed chess-playing data into the machines but the computers are choosing the moves. Moves are reported by telegraph.

The series is broken into four games of about 40 moves apiece.

Calendars began to flourish as an advertising medium late in the 19th century.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—In the Year of the Tie, the 1966 All-American football team announced today by Newspaper Enterprise Association adhered to the dual national championship claims by Notre Dame and Michigan State.

They were deadlocked for honors on the mythical team, with four players from each school gaining positions on the offensive and defensive platoons. Tribute was also paid to such unbeaten powers as Alabama (two places), Nebraska and Georgia Tech.

The Michigan State Spartans, champions of the Big Ten, had the glamor guys of the defense in Charles (Bubba) Smith, the towering end who sometimes lined up over the middle, and George Webster, aptly named the Monster Man in the roving linebacker role he assumed. For most of the season, running was the key to the Spartan attack, and the heavy duty man was Clinton Jones, who, from a pro standpoint, may be the best running back in the country—and a willing blocker, as well. Up front, Jerry West was a consistently high grader at the right tackle position.

Notre Dame had the offense answers to the Spartan pair in Nick Eddy and Tom Regner. Eddy, the best Irish runner, is placed at a flanker position here because he also excelled as a receiver and was frequently slotted out during a game. Regner made even big Bubba a fan in their standoff. Lynch was a brilliant leader for the Irish defense, and Alan Page supplied the consistent pressure up front from his right end post. Like their Spartan counterparts, all are seniors.

A final chance to see them at their best will be provided on Nov. 26 when the NEA All-American team is presented by ABC-TV at the post-game show following the NCAA Game of the Week between Army and Navy. Action clips of the players will be shown to highlight their excellence.

Alabama, which also has some claim to the national title, will have two choices on display. Cecil Dowdy, a fine offensive tackle, has been Bama's strong man up front. Bryant calls Ray Perkins his finest all-around athlete. Perkins spends most of his time as a flanked-out receiver, but in at least three games this year, Bryant doubled him as a safety on defense. And so to honor this versatile performer, a departure from normal position was made to accommodate him as an All-American.

In a sense, that was true, too, with John LaGrone of the surprising Southern Methodist Mustangs. LaGrone, who started out as a defensive end, was made a middle guard but also operates out of the line and thus qualifies as a linebacker. "He was impossible to block," said Coach Darrell Royal of Texas.

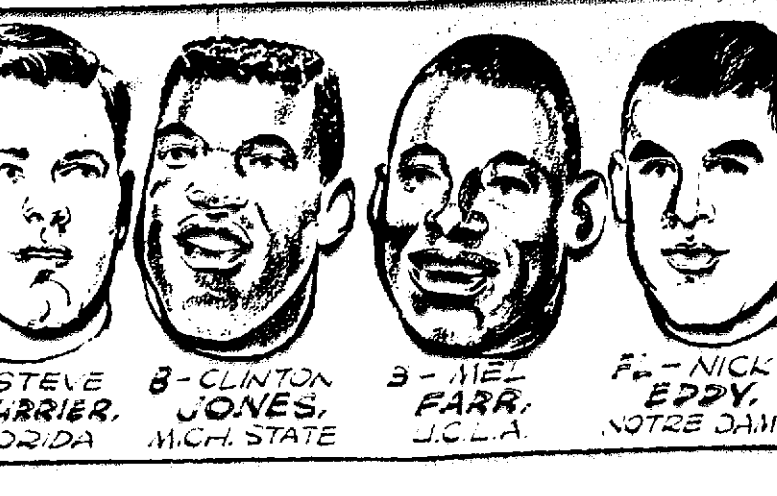

Entrenched at middle guard is Wayne Meylan of Nebraska, one of three juniors on the squad (the others are defensive tackle Dennis Byrd of North Carolina State and offensive guard Edgar Chandler of Georgia).

The Southeast, a lively rival to the Midwest, in the battle for regional supremacy, has seven representatives on the All-American units: Dowdy, Perkins, Chandler, center Jim Breland of Georgia Tech (called the best ever by Coach Bobby Dodd), tight end Austin Denney of Tennessee (a blocking type the pros savor), defensive back Tom Beier of Miami and the probable Player of the Year, Steve Spurrier.

It was a merry year for quarterbacks, but Florida's Spurrier won down the stretch over Gary Beban of UCLA and Bob Griese, last year's choice from Purdue.

Beban's teammate, Mel Farr, is the big man, physically, of the backfield. Another West Coast choice was Nate Shaw of Southern California. Joining LaGrone from the Southwest was defensive tackle Loyd Phillips of Arkansas. Jack Clancy of Michigan, the nation's leading receiver, prevented a Notre Dame-Michigan State monopoly of the midlands. The East, in a down cycle, was shut out.

The team was chosen by consulting scouts, coaches and writers in every part of the country, representing a true cross-section of opinion. That opinion, as one might suspect, leaned heavily toward two of the finest college teams of the half century—Notre Dame and Michigan State.

Project Hope Gives Hope to Nations That Are Underdeveloped

BY MARY ANITA LASETER
STAR FEATURE WRITER

Six years ago a vessel of international good will was launched, and we are not speaking figuratively. The S. S. Hope, a hospital ship of mercy, began a voyage that has taken it to ports in Asia, Africa, and Latin America.

It is only natural that we should pay special attention to anything with such a name, be it a comedian or a project with good medicine of the spirit of the body.

Project Hope is unique in purpose: to bring the skills and techniques developed by the American medical professions to the people of other nations in their own environments, adapted specifically to their needs and their way of life. Hope recognizes the premise that no country can grow strong economically without a basically healthy population.

Guided by the principle of helping people help themselves, Hope meets the needs of human dignity and leaves behind a legacy of good health and goodwill.

The broadest import of all of Hope's successes may be the reaction of the world's needy to the enterprise and to the generous Americans who are supporting it. During its short history more than 900 American physicians, dentists, nurses, and auxiliary personnel have served aboard the ship for free in two-month shifts. And there is a waiting list of doctors.

Over 100,000 patients have been treated ... and over 8,000 major operations performed ... more than a million benefited through immunization, examination, and other services. And it has a waiting list of sufferers.

Something like one-fourth of the world at the last count.

In his syndicated column this past August, Jim Murray praised the work of Hope, made possible by a "dedicated band of physicians and philanthropists who declared war not on people, but on germs, and set out to sell America with a stethoscope, not a bayonet."

It seems that the S. S. Hope goes only where it is invited and stays in a harbor for a year. You can be sure it is not lacking in invitations. There has never been anything quite like Hope. Ask an ex-blind man in Peru, an ex-cripple in Viet Nam, an ex-mortality figure in Ecuador, an ex-deaf child in Guinea, and other ex-hopeless thousands on three continents.

The S. S. Hope is a different kind of battleship that is fighting for democracy with balm, not napalm. The cost of operating the vessel for a year is approximately the same as the price of a jet bomber—$5 million. As Jim Murray expressed it, "Its sailors don't draw blood, they give it ... It flies the flag of humanity."

Like the phrase says on our Chamber of Commerce mail, "We have Faith in Hope." So

Franco Acts to Change Spanish Rule

By HAROLD K. MILKS

MADRID (AP) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco's proposals to put Spain on the road to limited democratic monarchy gave hope today to the monarchists and nothing much to the 73-year-old dictator's opposition.

Some critics charged Franco's proposed new organic laws were only a subtle means to assure continuation of his regime.

Others looked forward to the change as a liberalization after 27 years of dictatorship.

The country's 32 million people still do not know who their next chief of state will be — or when he will take over from Franco. But they know he is scheduled to be a king and how he will be chosen.

The leading contenders are Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, 28-year-old grandson of the last king who is considered Franco's choice, and the prince's father, Don Juan, a 54-year-old exile in Portugal.

Franco made his proposals Tuesday in a long-awaited address to the Cortes (Parliament), which immediately approved the laws by acclamation. They will be submitted to a national referendum—Spain's second in 30 years—expected to be Dec. 14. Approval is considered certain.

Franco offered to snip off some of his autocratic powers but kept his ban on political parties.

"With us a genuine, orderly and effective democracy excludes political parties, but this in no way implies the exclusion of the legitimate contrast of opinions," he said.

Opposition sources said this decision, not included in the new laws, could drive such moderate groups as the Socialists and the Christian Democrats underground. Oppositionists who had hoped to work in cooperation with the ruling regime said Franco's declaration ruled out a "legitimate opposition."

Among the major changes, Franco proposed:

—When Franco dies or becomes incapacitated, he will be succeeded by a king nominated by the Council of the Realm and

He suggested the savings should be redesignated as foreign aid and routed to underdeveloped countries.

Kennedy Popularity Is Emotional

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Three years after his death President John F. Kennedy has become a magic figure to many Americans, perhaps to most. He ranks far higher in popular favor than his successor, President Johnson.

But much of this appraisal has its roots not in intellect but in emotion and personality, plus some other factors in the American society of this time. It is no barometer for what historians will say 50 years from now.

Kennedy had style, one of the most frequently used words in describing him, grace, wit, and a streak of the poetic in his response to people and events.

And he always had enough self-assurance to keep his ego out of sight in a bottle with a cork in it in the hall closet. He didn't let it creep out on him in public.

Perhaps just as important in trying to understand the intensity of the devotion to this man who died so recently was the sense of youth he conveyed — new hope, new starts, new horizons — in a country where far more than half the population is under 50. He was 46 when he died.

Thus dying when and how he did — still young but assassinated — he moved instantly into history on the rich carpet of martyrdom with all that meant in the accompanying embroidery of mythology: adulation, sentimentality, and magnified appreciation.

Johnson has little of Kennedy's glamor and sense of youth. He is older, anyway. He is 58. He has not much wit, not much grace in the Kennedy sense, his utterances are not poetic but prosaic.

And he wears his egotism like a green beret, with "I this" and "we this" and "my that." Yet, right here one of the great differences between Johnson and Kennedy appears, on the surface at least.

Memory Can Blot Out the Harsh Present, Bring Back the Past

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Memory is the magic mirror of life.

At will it can blot out the harsh present and in an instant replay the past, bringing to mind clearly again the warmth of vanished scenes, voices and faces.

And you've got a pretty big storehouse of memories yourself if you can look back and remember when:

Rain May End East Coast Smog Threat

By RAY KOHN

NEW YORK (AP) — Rain fell Friday night and early today in many areas of the smog-stricken northeastern seaboard, bringing with it the possibility of an end to the three-day air pollution crisis.

A Weather Bureau spokesman said rain helps "clear the atmosphere of fine dust particles," and he looked for the arrival of a cold air mass, which has been lying to the northwest, to crowd out the blanket of stale air, getting dirtier all the while, clung over communities from Massachusetts to Maryland.

Hardest hit were metropolitan areas with their mass industry and transit.

New York City, Connecticut and New Jersey were placed on antipollution alerts. A voluntary ban on use of cars was urged.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller ordered a first alert against pollution for the New York City area. First alerts, also in effect in New Jersey and Connecticut, are voluntary as are second alerts. A third alert is mandatory and would shut down factories and bar autos and buses from the streets.

Thursday the smog was the thickest and the dangers the greatest.

In all affected areas, victims of heart disease, emphysema and chronic bronchitis were advised to remain indoors, with windows closed, and to use air conditioners if possible.

In Philadelphia, the pollution index hit the top scale reading of 10. City Health Commissioner Norman Ingraham said the top reading was not really serious temporarily, but it becomes dangerous "when such maximum conditions persist for several days."

New York's air pollution "norm" on a different scale has been set at 12, and the danger level at 50. Thursday the index read 60.6. At midnight Friday night it was down to 17.0.

Baltimore reported "mostly a smoke-type smog."

Beatles Make a New Record

LONDON (AP) — The Beatles ended three months of separation Thursday night and got together to make a new record.

Since returning from an American tour at the end of August, the four singers have been following independent lines of work and play. Reports they were breaking have been denied.

Other Western governments have pondered aloud over how long the United Nations can continue to exclude a regime that governs some 700 million people.

Talk of universality in the United Nations — membership for all comers — has posed a ticklish problem for the Nationalists, especially in view of the support it has been getting from such leaders as Secretary-general U Thant.

"Universality is something we adhere to in principle," said Liu ... (but) "it is incorrect to say that universality is a principle of the U.N. charter, that document ... was aimed primarily at checking aggression among nations, it calls for the suspension of any member who violates the principles of non-aggression."

"It is also noteworthy," he said, "that many who call loudly for universality are the same ones who want to oust us from the United Nations."

The constant threat of expulsion has had no visible effect on the operation of the Nationalist mission. Its members carry on their share of the work in the assembly's committees, ignoring the occasional snubs and Soviet bloc walkouts that come with every major Nationalist speech.

Despite the specter of defections in the West, Liu expressed confidence the Nationalists will do better than last year when the assembly voted 47-47 with 20 abstentions. Some supporters of the Nationalists predicted a 55-48 vote in their favor.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
COPENHAGEN, Denmark
(AP) — Danish Socialist leader Aksel Larsen has changed his mind and agreed to try to form a coalition with Prime Minister Jens Otto Krag's Social Democrats.

Talk of an alliance began after elections last Tuesday in which the Socialists doubled their parliamentary seats and the Social Democrats lost almost 10 per cent of theirs. Krag's party remained the largest single group in Parliament.

Nationalist China Won't Accept Deal

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.
(AP) — Nationalist China, facing its annual fight for survival in the United Nations, insists it will not accept a two-China deal as the price of remaining a member.

A talk in the United States, Canada and elsewhere about seating both Chinese regimes in the world organization has dismayed Nationalist leaders battling to block the Reds of Peking.

It has been particularly disturbing to Ambassador Liu Chieh, chief of the Nationalist mission, who reports pledges of support from at least three African members who voted for the Communists last year.

"The two-Chinas idea is unacceptable, not only to my government, but to the Chinese people, and this includes those on the mainland," Liu says.

Liu apparently has no fear that the campaign by American groups to seat both Chinas will induce Washington to reverse at this stage its opposition to a seat for Peking.

But the effect on U.S. allies is something to reckon with, Liu told an interviewer. As a founding member of the United Nations who has attended all 21 assembly sessions, the career diplomat from the Chiang regime on Formosa has plenty of experience seeing trends change in the world forum.

"The irony of it is that while we are gaining ground in either areas, agitation in the United States for the two-China idea has certainly affected some of the Western allies," he said.

"This hidden factor could be very damaging to our cause," Nationalist uneasiness was increased by reports from Ottawa that Canada, which voted against Red China last year, might cosponsor a resolution in the 121-nation General Assembly, to seat both Chinas and give the Reds the Chinese permanent seat as one of five major powers on the 15-nation Security Council.

Other Western governments have pondered aloud over how long the United Nations can continue to exclude a regime that governs some 700 million people.

More Control Sought for V. Nam Aid

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam
(AP) — Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., said today tighter controls are needed to prevent further drainage of U.S. aid into the black market and other improper channels in Viet Nam.

"I do believe that closer checks are necessary," Young told a reporter after a lengthy briefing by AID officials headed by Donald McDonald AID administrator for South Viet Nam.

Young said, "It would appear there has been considerable improvement recently" in the diversion situation.

Young remarked that this may have been due to a recent Associated Press series highlighting the diversion-corruption-black market problem in "Exposure does help," Young Asked what recommendations he will take back to Washington, Young said he will be talking with top members of the Senate Investigations subcommittee and the Senate Appropriations Committee about his impressions.

Smithsonian Embarks on New Venture

By J.W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Smithsonian Institution, a treasure house of relics, is embarked on a new venture which is intended to have impact on cities and small towns throughout the nation.

The program is keyed to museums and how they can pay off in the far-reaching benefits of stimulating educational growth and the immediate benefits of producing income for towns and

Frank A. Taylor, director of the United States National Museum of the Smithsonian Institution, says the Smithsonian is intensifying cooperation with more than 5,000 existing museums, and also is engaged in training curators and other museum workers.

The 89th Congress passed, and President Johnson signed, legislation providing for a million-dollar, four-year start on the program. The underlying aims are to help improve present museums and to encourage communities which do not have them, to start now on setting them up.

The Smithsonian, top Washington attraction for tourists and scholars, is a center of study that in recent years has changed from being known as "the nation's attic" to "the nation's showplace."

More than 10 million visitors pass through the Smithsonian each year.

Tourists can be drawn to small museums, too, Taylor said.

"Tourism is a big economic boon to any community and museums have frequently helped the economy of their areas far beyond any relationship to the modest support given them," he says.

"Twice in recent weeks, I have heard it said that businesses seeking locations for new plants are quite concerned about the cultural climate," Taylor says.

A for helping education, Taylor says, "the museum, no matter how small, offers reality, which is eagerly sought by the young, active-minded people."

"The textbook, radio and television are saturating the student with second-hand interpretation, and someone else's impressions. He must be given the opportunity to form his own impressions of reality. These are the words of educators."

The legislation behind the new Smithsonian cooperative program permits the support of students enrolled in schools and colleges in taking cooperative courses in museums and makes possible internships for people working in museums who may require work training in well-equipped and well-staffed museums.
